

Two buildings face very different fates

Pennington County considers selling one and demolishing another

by April Scheinoha Reporter

The Pennington County Board is contemplating selling the former Human Services Department building along Knight Avenue. At their meeting Tuesday, Jan. 7, commissioners directed County Auditor-Treasurer Jennifer Herzberg to investigate the procedure the county needs to undertake if commissioners decide to move forward with selling the building and the affiliated parking lot across the street.

In 2024, Knight Avenue staff moved into offices on the third floor of the Government Center. Courtrooms and the Court Administrator's Office were formerly located on that floor. The Child Support Division was already located at the Government Center and has since moved to the third floor of the building.

Bruce Commissioners Lawrence said the county replaced a furnace at the for-Human mer Services Department building two or three years ago. The other furnace needs to be replaced. He said some individuals have asked about leasing the building. However, the county would need to redo the building to their liking. Lawrence noted there would also be some costs if the county wanted to get the building ready for a sale.

County Coordinator Kevin Erickson provided an update on City Auditorium. Once the Štate Historic Preservation Office learned of the county's plans to potentially demolish City Auditorium, the county learned of several requirements that needed to be met. Last year, SHIP sought documentation pertaining to the rehabilitation of the building. In January 2024, the county commissioned a $15,000 study from BKV Group for that purpose. In an interview with the North-ern Watch, Erickson said the study provided several options, but total remodeling costs for readaptive use ranged from $8.26 million to $11.38 million. If the county remodeled the building in line with a 2019 adaptive reuse study, the total was estimated to be roughly $14 million to $20 million. Demolition cost estimates ranged from $590,000 to $840,000. Those numbers are 2024 es-timates. BKV Group noted that the county should add 5% for future years.

County leaders have also learned they need to archive and photograph the building before potentially moving forward. Erickson learned that the county isn't allowed to use a local photographer. Utilizing the SHIP website, he contacted one photographer who provided a quote of

CML Champions Fund supporting our past and future

Keady to leave 2024 behind? Make a resolution you'll

The CML Champions Fund is a managed component fund established in 2021 in the memory of Connie and Merece Lubarski. The fund is committed to supporting educational scholarship and opportunities of Stephen-Argyle Central, the development of the communities of Argyle and Stephen, and strategically supporting the overall development of NW Minnesota. The CML Champions

The CML Champions Fund provides the largest scholarship awarded to a graduating senior at Stephen-Argyle Central -$5,000. The initial scholarship awarded was to Macy Haugen in 2022. Claire McGlynn earned the scholarship in 2023.

In 2024, the CML Champions Fund Board determined that they had three worthy recipients of the scholarship. Those individuals are:

 Carsen Safranski -University of North Dakota,
Jennifer Sargent -Northland Community and Technical College, and

• Regan Swanson - Minnesota State University -Moorhead

Each recieved a $3,000 scholarship to support their high educational opportunities. This was the first award since the passing of Connie in September of 2023.

The CML Champions Fund is committed to supporting innovative growth in the communities and improving the quality of life for those residing in our region.

There are two projects that are currently in progress that demonstrate this mission. A grant of $10,000 has been made to support the purchase and construction of a greenhouse at Stephen-Argyle Central to be used in the Agricultural Sciences and Food Science programs. The funds for the project have been secured and the construction of the project is scheduled to start this fall.

CML Champions continues to seek support for the mission and vision of the fund - honoring our past and fostering the future by championing opportunities today. Please visit http://www.sac.k12.mn.us/co nnie-merece-lubarski-

Lealth, exercise and diet are often at the top of Americans' list of New Year's resolutions. That should be true for area residents too.

Right now, said Dr. Soheil Souri, family medicine specialist with Sanford Health in Thief River Falls, obesity is now the leading cause of fatty liver disease, also known as nonalcoholic fatty liver disease or NAFLD.

It used to be that fatty liver disease was frequently associated with alcohol consumption, but that's not necessarily true today. Obesity is also associated with an increased risk of fatty liver disease. When the liver does actually be able to keep not process and break down fats as it normally should, too much fat will accumulate.

Dr. Souri said there are three lifestyle adjustments people can make that will produce immediate results. Diet, exercise, and emotional health, he said, go hand in hand.

The American Academy of Family Physicians recommend at least 150 minutes of moderate-intensity aerobic activity or 75 minutes of vigorous-intensity aerobic activity per week.

Dr. Souri said that's roughly 15 to 20-minutes of regular walking, and it's a great way to start a new year. He added that people should also incorporate muscle-strengthening exercises not process and break down in their effort at least twice fats as it normally should, a week.

Of course, the kitchen should be another focus of their effort to improve their health. Dr. Souri said not to forget to drink water, but their diet should consist of nutrient-dense foods with an emphasis on vegetables, fruits, grains, dairy, protein and oils, while limiting sugar, saturated fats, sodium and alcohol.

Greater emphasis has been placed on mental health in recent years. Dr. Souri said not to neglect one's mental health. In northwest Minnesota, winter typically lasts five to six months, and that can have an impact on one's mental

How to get children excited about exercise

Human beings need to engage in physical activity to stay healthy. But too many children are not getting the exercise they need. Only 50% of boys and less than 34% of girls between the ages of 12 and 15 are adequately fit, according to the Centers for Disease Control and Prevention. Children who are not physically fit are at greater risk for chronic diseases. In addition, children who are overweight or obese are at a higher risk of retaining that extra weight into adulthood.

Getting children to exercise regularly can be an uphill battle with so many distractions, such as electronic devices, vying for their attention. But parents can explore the following ways to get children more excited about physical activity.

Choose interactive toys. Select toys for kids that require movement. These can include sporting activities, scooters, bicycles, and even video games that involve physical activity. Kids will be moving while they play, which is a first step. Set an example. Chil-

Set an example. Children may be more likely to embrace physical activity if they see their parents exercising regularly. Adults can share their passions for activities that encourage movement, whether it is hiking, heading to the gym, swimming, or rock scrambling.

Make it a contest. People can be very competitive, especially young children. If kids know there is a prize or reward attached to doing something, they may have more motivation to engage with it. Offer a prize to the person who can log the most minutes of physical activity each week.

Make things social. The more people involved in an activity, the greater the chance kids will want to be involved. Therefore, invite their friends, cousins, classmates, and other relatives to participate.

Look for new ways to exercise. Plan vacations and day trips around an activity. Perhaps the family can learn how to surf or snorkel on a trip; otherwise, a trip to the zoo or a museum can involve a lot of walking.

Find reasons to walk. Kids and parents can walk

Hallock - In its final meeting of 2024, the Kittson County Board approved the 2025 county budget and tax levy, including an increase to their salaries for the year.

When commissioners approved the preliminary 2025 budget and levy in September, they shot high with a 10.5% increase over 2024.

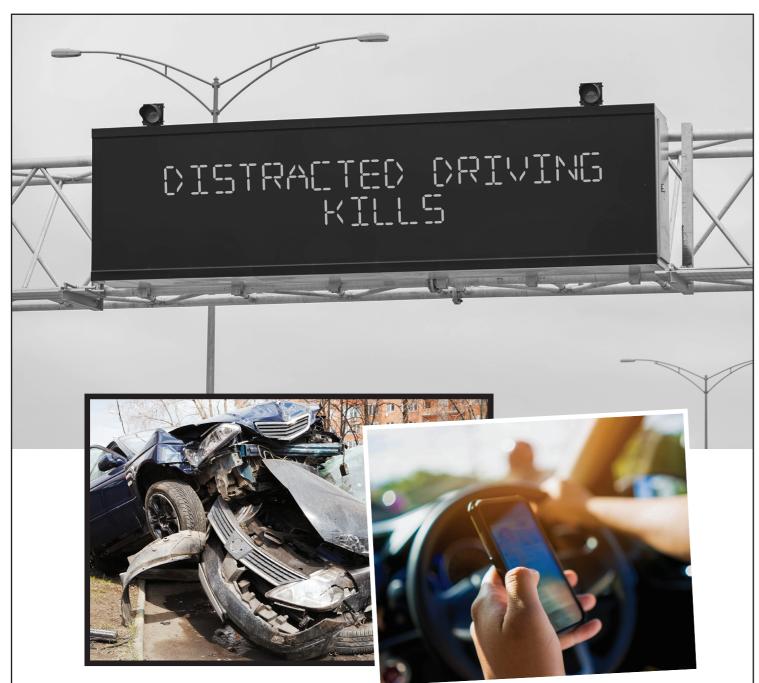

Since the Sept. 10 meeting, the Budget Committee trimmed the levy down to $6,159,517.33, an approximate 5% increase over 2024. The board, with two outgoing members, also approved increasing commissioners' salaries for 2025. Administrator Aimee Sugden said the board hasn't increased its wages for the last couple of years.

Each commissioner will receive an annual salary of $26,378.30 plus benefits, effective Jan. 1. The resolution further stated per diems received for meetings remain at $60 for meetings other than regular meetings that are under four hours and $90 for meetings over four hours. -Kittson County Enterprise, Jan. 8, 2025, by Anna Jauhola

A seed of doubt

One of my brothers has been picking on me. Mom is no longer here for me to complain to, so you get to read about it.

Just after Christmas, my brother and his family flew to some Bahamian resort. I'm not sure of the exact location. I really didn't want to know. I just know they went a vacation because ... well because Texas, where they live, wasn't warm enough. The crux of my complaint is that my brother sent me several pictures of sunny beaches, palm trees, and relaxing cabanas ... and it was -13 in Thief River Falls. "No snow here," he wrote. "Mom!"

This is typically a quiet time in northwestern Minnesota. There are no stories of insurrections at City Hall. There are no self-driving car accidents. And, there are no out-of-control wildfires to report on.

Instead, we're being told to get off our butts and get some exercise, wash our hands because a norovirus, which is characterized by vomiting and diarrhea, is going around, and now someone is telling us to limit our coffee intake. Cheese and sprinkles!

Of course, there are serious issues. There are a lot of people worried about the impact the impending shut-down of Arctic Cat will have on its employees and the community. I do know that several people in the community as well as state officials and legislators are working behind the scenes. Some day they'll let us know what's happening. I'm hoping for the best.

Another group of individuals are working on a festival. Frost Fest has been scheduled for January 24-26. Plans at this point in time include a parade, and a performance by Hairball, a rock tribute band that has performed in Thief River Falls before. That's sure to heat things up a bit. Not sure where the parade route will be on river ice? Could be interesting.

I also know that several groups of individuals are working hard to keep our community safe, and running smoothly - even if it is running on ice. That's one of the nice things about living in northwestern Minnesota · where there are no palm trees - a lot of people are working together, sharing their knowledge and experience, and supporting our way of life.

Just so, I responded to my brother that I heard an ice storm, just like the one that caused the pipes in his house to freeze in 2021, had put Texas in its crosshairs, and that the governor said everything was "under control."

There's nothing like planting a seed of doubt in someone's head to bring them to their knees! And to those snowbirds out there who are crowing - are you sure your house in northwestern Minnesota is keeping up with the cold?

A letter to my brother Dave

Dear Dave,

by

I was thinking as we begin 2025 how the year seemed an impossible period to reach at one time; it was just too far into the future. What I mean is George Jetson is now near retirement and the icons of that futuristic cartoon (smart watches, personal assistants and video calls) are now common. People like to joke that they are waiting for a flying car as used by the Jetson family; however, what they should say is that they are waiting for a commercially viable flying car. Even if you don't have a car in your personal garage that flies, that does not mean they don't exist; they've existed in small batches for decades. The future is now and it is 2025

Other than being a milepost for gazing forward, 2025 looks similar to other years for me, Dave. The month of January used to mean frost-frozen windows and the start of the grayest part of winter when I was growing up. Today, the month is the heart of the meeting season, especially in the ag sector. Farmers sometimes use this time of year to haul their crops in for sale, but there is typically time for important meetings. Various crop associations and the University of Minnesota Extension Service will hold informational meetings to prepare farmers for another season of herbicide-resistant weeds, high-stakes marketing and crop or tillage practices that may help them feed the world. All of these gatherings are fueled by 30 cup coffee makers, cake donuts and bear claws.

We took a big move this week, Dave. Twenty-two years of cleaning litter boxes ended when the litter-robot arrived at our house, at least it should end soon. The automatic cat litter box is now programmed and ready for its first customer. The techkeeps nology detailed records of usage, and I suspect we will have a very good idea of the health of our cats. I hope the technology is dependable or else it will be back to me with my little slotted beach shovel cleaning up those old boxes. The litter-bot comes with an app that notifies us when a cat uses the new commode, so now we wait.

Project Feederwatch has broadened its horizons, at least at our place, Dave. The project is meant to give valuable data to the Cornell School of Ornithology about bird interactions. We've had a nice group of birds; however, the word of free food got out and we have now become a gathering spot for squirrels, rabbits, deer and one raccoon who didn't know he was supposed to be hibernating. I waved the flag of surrender to the deer. After failed attempts to raise the bird feeder high enough to prevent the deer from eating, we just bought them some hay and a little cracked corn. (We're not in the deer feeding ban.) It seems to have worked out as they have left the bird feeders alone.

I hope Carrington is good right now as you prepare for another farming season, Dave. I checked and we are only seven weeks away from the start of the boys basketball post-season, which means spring is not too far to Minnesota North College -Itasca in an MCAC North men's basketball game Wednesday night in Grand Rapids.

The host Vikings opened the game on a 7-0 run, but the Pioneers regrouped and finished the first half by outscoring the Vikings 27-18 over the final 16 minutes to take a 27-25 lead into the locker room.

The Pioneers led 46-42 with 10:57 remaining, but failed to score over the next 5:33 as the Vikings used a 13-0 run in the second half to take control the game.

The Pioneers broke the scoreless streak with a Daymon Ware layup to make it 55-48 with 5:14 remaining. From there, the Pioneers would get to within four points of the Vikings on three occasions, including a 63-59 deficit with 15 seconds remaining, but they were unable to draw any closer as the Vikings hung on for the win.

Zeke Aime and Tre Jones both scored 14 points while coming off the bench for the Pioneers. Lewis Jones also reached double digits in scoring for the Pioneers with 11 points.

Nderius Walker had a big night for the Vikings, scoring 20 points while collecting 10 rebounds in 40 minutes of work.

The Pioneers are back in action Saturday against Minnesota North College - Rainy River in International Falls. Game time is 1 p.m.

2025 health insurance deadline approaching

Minnesotans who need health insurance for 2025 have one week remaining to sign up for a private health plan at MNsure.org. The deadline to enroll is 11:59 p.m. on Wednesday, Jan. 15, for coverage that starts Feb.

MNsure is the only place Minnesotans can save money on their monthly premiums. This year, eligible households will save $560 per month, on average, when they sign up through MNsure and take advantage of all the financial help they qualify for.

"Don't miss your chance to get the protection of comprehensive health insurance and access to discounts that could save your family thousands of dollars this year," said MNsure Chief Executive Officer Libby Caulum. "After Jan. 15, most Minnesotans will need a major life change like moving, getting married or having a baby to enroll in health insurance through MNsure."

LCCMR seeks project proposals

The Legislative-Citizen Commission on Minnesota Resources has issued its 2026 Request for Proposal for funding from Minnesota's Environment and Natural Resources Trust Fund. Approximately $103 million from the lottery-generated fund is available for projects that aim to protect, conserve, preserve, and enhance Minnesota's air, water, land, fish, wildlife, and other natural resources.

The LCCMR is requesting proposals to address updated funding priorities that were established in 2024 following adoption of a new strategic plan. Anyone with a project idea consistent with these priorities may submit a proposal. Priorities fall within the following categories:

MNsure are guaranteed to cover a list of essential health benefits that includes prescription drugs, emergency services and preventive care like flu shots and cancer screenings. Plans that don't provide comprehensive coverage can leave you at risk for high, unexpected medical costs when you get sick or need to go to a hospital.

Extended hours ahead of Jan. 15 deadline

To better serve Minnesotans, the MNsure Contact Center will be open extended hours leading up to the enrollment deadline: 9 a.m. - 1 p.m., Saturday, Jan. 11

• 8 a.m. – 8 p.m., Monday – Wednesday, Jan. 13 - 15

The Jan. 15 deadline does not apply to Minnesotans who qualify for Medical Assistance and MinnesotaCare or members of federally recognized tribes, who can sign up through MNsure any time of year.

All plans sold through through July 2025, the LCCMR will consider proposals received and make a final selection of projects to include in its recommendations to the Legislature for the > proved projects are available July 1, 2026. New applicants strongly encouraged to submit a proposal. Lobbying or professional grant-writing experience is not necessary for success. LCCMR staff are available on a first-comefirst-serve basis as time permits to review proposals for clarity, completeness, and potential eligibility issues. New applicants will be prioritized for these reviews. Erickson thought the photographer would be able to complete the work in the winter, but the quote would be higher.

County leaders also need to obtain an updated quote for asbestos abatement. Such abatement would be needed even if the county moved forward with demolition

It costs the county about $30,000 per year to maintain the building. City Auditorium needs a new heating system. The electric boiler is reaching the end of its life and there are no more parts available for it.

The county obtained City Auditorium and the Old Arena in 2008 as part of a swap with the City of Thief River Falls. The city received ownership of Oakland Park. The property swap was negotiated with the future expansion of county facilities in mind. Commissioners have discussed the future of City Auditorium ever since that time.

City Auditorium is located next door ro the Government Center, and commissioners are contemplating the demolition of the building to clear the way for additional parking. Previously, in 2019, County Board approved a study to consider improvements to the building. The work was covered by grants and private donations. Besides ADA improvements, the proposal featured various options for the building. Since that time, it seems that public interest has waned in the building and its future.

Applications open for Century and Sesquicentenial Farm recognition

Applications are now open for the Minnesota Farm Bureau Sesquicentennial Farm program, honoring Minnesota families that have owned their farms for at least 150 years. The dead-line to apply is March 3, 2025.

To qualify, the farm must: • Be at least 150 years old this year (2025) according to the abstract of title, land patent, original deed, county land records, court file in registration proceedings or other authentic land records. Please do not send originals or copies of records. Demonstrate ownership by the applying family

for 150 years or more. "Family" is defined as parents, grandparents, aunts, uncles, brothers, sisters, sons, daughters, first cousins and direct in-laws (father, mother, brother, sister, daughter, son-in-law).

Have continuous ownership. Continuous residence on farm is not required.

Consist of 50 or more acres and currently be involved in agricultural production.

A commemorative certificate signed by the governor of Minnesota, commissioner of the Minnesota Department of Agriculture and the

Nearly half of all Americans make New Year's resolutions, but only about 25% of people actually stay committed to their resolutions after just 30 days.

Dr. Souri said people should start with small, well-defined goals. Instead of walking 15 to 20 minutes per day, start with 10. Instead of three chocolate bars a day, consume only one. And, to help oneself stay true to a goal - keep a diary, create a weekly goal, and at the end of the week, give yourself a little reward. And then each week, increase your goals.

Failure is a part of success, said Dr. Souri. Missing a goal shouldn't be an excuse for giving up on a resolution. 'We learn from failure," said Dr. Souri. "Stay consistent," he said, "persevere, and start again. Every step you take counts.'

At Sanford, there's a team waiting to help. Dr. Souri said nutritionists, dietitians, doctors, therapists and nurses all work together to help patients reach their health goals. Take advantage of it. Sanford Health in Thief River Falls has a lot of resources for a small community. Take advantage of those resources.

Weight-loss medications are another option. Today, there are several approved weight-loss prescriptions.

Dr. Souri encourages individuals to come in for a consult to see if they qualify. He added that individuals who also have good lifestyle habits can have amazing results.

When considering New Year's resolutions for health, Dr. Souri said not to forget to schedule and complete recommended preventative health screenings - mammograms for breast cancer, colonoscopies for colorectal blood pressure cancer, checks, cholesterol level tests, and pap smears. These screenings can be particularly effective because they can detect diseases early when treatment is most likely to be successful.

Kids and exercise

(Continued from Page 1) to or from school each day to get exercise. Parking further away from stores ensures some extra steps as well. Take the stairs in malls instead of elevators or escalators.

Encourage participation in team sports. Afterschool athletics often involve multiple days of practices and games or meets, which can be all the exercise a kid needs to be healthy. Athletics also present a fun way to exercise with friends.

Kids need physical activity to stay healthy, and there are various ways to make them more inclined to be active.
